TRANSFER FIGHT RECEIVES BOOST

Act of August, 1912, Providing for Exchanges Held to Be Constitutional.

OPINION BY SHEPARD

Chief Justice of Court of Appeals Explains Responsibilities of Car Companies.

Holding constitutional the act approved August 24, 1912, providing for reciprocal transfer arrangements between the Capital Traction Company and the Metropolitan Coach Company, operator of the Har-dis line, Chief Justice Shepard of the Court of Appeals in an opinion handed down yesterday indirectly strengthened the cause of universal transfers. The opinion was rendered on an appeal from a ruling of Judge Maltby of the Police Court, who held the law unconstitutional on the ground that the provisions were conflicting.

Referring to the contention of the Traction Company that the proposed reciprocal transfer arrangements amounts to a deprivation of property, Chief Justice Shepard said:
"Transfer No Hardship.
"A passenger who purchases a ticket from one line is entitled to demand and receive from that line a transfer ticket which, without additional charge, enables him to ride to his final destination, upon the connecting or adjacent line of another carrier. It does not follow, however, that the other line carries him wholly without compensation. He pays the full fare of the initial line and receives a transfer that enables him to proceed to his destination. He, in return, or another person, not on a return trip, may fare upon the second line and receive a transfer to the first one. The arrangement is reciprocal. Presumably, one carrier receives as much benefit as the other.
"Any inequalities that may be developed may be remedied by regulation of the Commissioners under the power delegated to them."

In regard to the public use of the streets in the city, the court says in part:
"The streets are public highways for the convenience of all persons. The operation of street cars therein furnishes an additional convenience for the intended use of the streets. Instead of the governmental commission and maintenance of such additional convenience, Congress has preferred to delegate the exercise of the power to private corporations. These, organized primarily for private profit, nevertheless perform a public function which renders them subject to regulation and control by the power from which they derive their privileges."

Amendment Not Violated.
"It is only when the regulation imposes such a burden upon private property as to be tantamount to the performance of a public service as to render the property unreasonable and amounts to a deprivation of private property without due process of law, or to its taking for public use without compensation. Then only is it a violation of the fifth amendment."

OBJECTION OF W. C. T. U. IS HEARD IN THE HOUSE

White Ribboners Do Not Want Funeral Oration Over Adolphus Busch in Record.

A formal protest by the W. C. T. U. against the incorporation in the Congressional Record of the funeral oration delivered over the body of Adolphus Busch, the late St. Louis brewer, was submitted to the House yesterday by Speaker Clark and other members.
The protest was adopted at the recent meeting of the organization in Asbury Park, N. J. The funeral oration that aroused the protest was the Record of motion of Representative Dyer of Missouri.

SISLER IS CONGRATULATED.

Friends Pleased to Learn of Promotion by Commerce Commission.

Friends of Lester Sisler are offering their congratulations upon the announcement of his appointment as chief clerk of the Interstate Commerce Commission.
Mr. Sisler was appointed to the service of the commission from Pensacola, Florida, December 17, 1912. On January 1, 1913, he was designated as purchasing agent for the commission. He will continue to perform the duties of that position in addition to his work as chief clerk.
Mr. Sisler is a native of Washington, and a product of the Washington public schools. He also holds the degree of LL. B. from Georgetown University.
Mr. Sisler will be married to Miss Gertrude Whyte, of this city, at St.
Patrick's Church on November 18.

COMPANIES WILL NOT PAY TAX, SAYS REPORT

Collector Rogers Recommends Drastic Action Against B. & O. and Washington Terminal.

Total tax collection in the District for the fiscal year ended June 30 last, amounting to $2,131,779.34, or nearly $500,000 more than during the preceding year, according to the annual report of Charles C.
Rogers, collector of taxes, submitted to the Commissioners yesterday.
In his report, Mr. Rogers called attention to the sum of $20,000 unpaid taxes assessed against the Washington Terminal Company and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for the use of public space, which was abandoned in connection with the erection of the new station. He urged that drastic steps be taken to enforce the payment of these taxes.
The Washington Terminal Company and the railroad company have refused to pay the assessments on the grounds that the title to the streets is in the name of the United States. Each year the property has been offered at the tax sale and bid in by the District in default of purchasers.
In this connection Mr. Rogers recommends legislation be obtained to enforce the tax liens. Sources of revenue are divided in the report as follows: Realty taxes, $1,101,504.30; personal taxes, $1,120, $40.52; special reimbursable taxes, $278.75; penalties and interest, $45,802.81; miscellaneous collections, $1,880,448.92.
